Getting to know... Krystal Ostdiek

Job Title: Math Faculty

When did you start working at Ranger College? August 2020

Where did you grow up? Richland Springs

Favorite place to eat in Texas? My parent's house! After spending years in another state, it is so nice to be able to have a family get together for any/no reason at all.

Where can we find you on a Friday night? Teaching a Yoga or Barre class or just relaxing at home with my family.

What is the last book you read? Grace not Perfection by Emily Ley

Guilty pleasure: Tom's Salt and Vinegar chips.

Favorite Ranger College Moment: Watching students that I spent time teaching and advising successfully make it to graduation.

Kudos

A big thanks to Gena Camacho from the Eastland County Crisis Center. Gena speaks to our Ranger students on a frequent basis about alcohol and drug use, sexual assault, and many other hard-hitting topics. Thank you, Gena, for all you do for our Ranger College family!

Weekly Ranger Athletics Recap

The Ranger College Men's and Women's Basketball teams are now less than 10-days before they tip-off the 2022-2023 season. This past week the teams celebrated by hosting a pep rally highlighted by a performance from the Ranger College cheerleaders, a dance-off contest, and a pop-the-balloon relay race. Afterwards the crowd was dazzled by spectacular shooting, amazing dribbling, and thunderous slam-dunks from the teams.

More Than Just Books by Golemon Library Assistant, Mrs. Helen Cozart

After a few hiccups our exhibit Hidden Histories of the Transcontinental Railroad has arrived. Display dates have changed because it was late and it will now be available through November 4th.

Thanks for all the entries in the Scary Short Story contest. We had entries from all the campuses and seven dual credit schools, including homeschool. The winners will be notified by the 28th and everyone is invited to the library on October 31 for our award ceremony, with readings of our entries and a scary movie. Readings and awards will be zoomed so everyone can attend.

As we move into all the new databases, I want to share an important resource with you: TSLAC. The Texas State Library and Archive Commission is our source for most of our databases. They have quite a few tutorial and information pages that might help you incorporate the databases into your coursework. Try Gale support or their general help page for tutorials, webinars, resource guides, even scavenger hunts you can use with your students for teaching information literacy.

What to do this weekend: It's Halloween!! There are tons of haunted houses in the DFW area. There are also several right here. There are no links for information, but flyers are attached. A couple of non-Halloween options are in Glen Rose, for Fossilmania, and Waco. The Texas Sports Hall of Fame is having a memorabilia trading show.

As part of our International Year, this week we are celebrating Diwali. Diwali is a Hindu international festival of lights celebrating the triumph of good over evil. The lights represent the lamp of power, knowledge, and virtue within us. Its origins are in India, but events are held all over the world. Nearby events this weekend are at Plano and Irving.
